Constituted in 1919 as Ente Autonomo per l'Acquedotto Pugliese, the company has operated for 80 years as state-controlled enterprise. In 1999 EAAP has been converted into a joint-stock company named Acquedotto Pugliese SpA (AQP), with a capital stock of € 40,363,457. Today AQP as holding company completely owned by the Apulia Region, is one of the largest water company worldwide and by far the largest Italian water utility with the respect of the extension of the water and wastewater infrastructures, the amount of population served and the volume of water supplied.

Wastewater collected and transported through the sewerage systems is treated by 164 wastewater treatment plants. Furthermore, AQP has under management the service of meter reading, billing and collection in the whole area served. The total number of meters is about 890,000. An idea of the magnitude of the company business is given by the energy consumption, which amounts to 590 millions of kWh, and the total turnover is about 350 million euro yearly. Other services carried out by AQP include water and wastewater sampling and laboratory analysis, which are carried out daily by qualified personnel in 14 laboratories. AQP laboratories make use of advanced technologies and equipments for sampling and analyzing quality parameters of both drinking water and wastewaters.
